Reduce the Risk of Your ERP System Implementation

We know that implementing a new Enterprise Requirements Planning (ERP) system is a very complex and sometimes overwhelming undertaking. It is not uncommon for ERP implementations to run over budget and in some cases to cause significant disruption to the business. Oftentimes, this disruption results from a gap between the services provided by the ERP system integrator and the knowledge, capability and bandwidth of the ERP end-user's internal talent. We can help bridge this gap and reduce implementation risk by supplementing your project team with talent to fit the following roles:

- Project Management
- System Analysts
- Business Analysts
- Programmer / Analysts
- Trainers
- Consultants
- Application Developers
- Database Administrators
- Reporting Consultants
